

Learning and Problem Solving Experiments @ Learning Research & Development Center

$10.00 per hour

Researchers at the University of Pittsburgh are looking for subjects to participate in experiments on learning and problem solving in math and physics. To participate you must be 18 or older, proficient in English, and have recently taken a Introduction to Physics course. Most experimental sessions take between 30-180 minutes to complete. Some experiments require attending multiple sessions. For more information or to participate please contact Dr. Timothy Nokes (nokeslab@gmail.com).

University of Pittsburgh

[illegible]